CALIFORNIA SEARCHES TOURISTS

Mrs. W. W. Lewis, of Whitmire, from a southern state, traveling by motor with her five children and the cook, reached the California frontier and discovered that their baggage would be searched as thoroughly as if they were Finns who had arrived at the port of New York. Mrs. Lewis gives an amusing account of the incident and smilingly describes the embarrassment of the honeymooning couple in the care next to be searched.

California, Mrs. Lewis says, is fearful that tourists will bring in the boll weevil. In this part of the world California is not considered a cotton growing state, but the staple is cultivated in the southern area. It may be that the boll weevil is the only reason for the California frontier immigration bureau, but it has been said that persons with Florida oranges have been required to part with them on the ground that they may be harboring the fruit fly.

Several of the Western states maintain "ports of entry" for one purpose or another and tourists must submit to thorough search or back-track. It may be that some independent American who believes that their liberty is being violated back-track, but if a motorist wishes to enter California, he, or she, must submit to the careful inspection of every item in the baggage and in the car.

The California bureau of immigration does not interfere with the inflow of tourists by highway. The right of a state to enforce quarantines cannot be resisted with success. Fortunately, because of the work of the United States Public Health Service, quarantines against men, women and children are infrequent nowadays.

Complaints against the "port of entry" have fallen upon deaf ears in the states which maintain them. These bureaucratic institutions are said to interfere with free movement of Americans from state to state in violation of the federal constitution. The states answer that they are maintaining quarantines in self-protection and that the right of Americans to come and go is not questioned unless the arrivals be considered undesirable to try to bring in baggage which may harbor injurious insects.

Mrs. Lewis, her children and the cook being desirables, were given safe conduct after their belongings had been approved.

IT'S MEAN, ALL RIGHT

Any amateur student of meteorological matters will sooner or later come face to face with the term "mean temperature" and wonder what it means. In a hazy sort of way he will gather that it has something to do with the average temperature readings over a given period, and wonder why the weather sharks don't call it "average" and let it go at that.

Now we have been permitted to understand what it's all about. The early part of June had a near-record rainfall and one of the lowest temperatures of many a spring. Last year at about the same time some of the June days came near to breaking the high record. The past week with its torridity was a gentle reminder of those warmer days. They were mean days too. Put two mean things together and the result can be only something mean.

Matters of science and meteorology are simple once you get the hang of them.

MORE BABIES TO SHOOT GUNS

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Wilhelm Frick, Germany's minister of the interior, speaking at Wildbad, promised ed workers and farmers they would get more money for more babies. The objective of the nazi government is three or four children for each family.

More babies for what? Germany is already overcrowded. It has a population of more than 360 persons per square mile as against 41 in the United States. Its colonies are gone and there is, therefore, no place for an excess population. Even under existing conditions, there is not enough food for people to eat and the nazi high authorities are forced to issue rationing requirements.

Yet Herr Frick is pleading for more babies. More babies to fill the ranks of Germany's huge armies. More babies to learn unquestioning obedience to the dictatorship. More babies to learn to shoot rifles and machine guns, to throw hand grenades, to man warships, to soar over cities in giant planes and release bombs on defenseless populations. More babies to invade the territories of peaceful populations and to spread death and destruction in the nazi cause.

Are the mothers and fathers of Germany to lend themselves to the mass production of babies, whose role in life, as conceived by the nazi leaders, will be to kill and maim and burn, and to be killed and maimed and burned?

FOURTH OF JULY SWIMMERS

Predicting that there will probably be more swimmers in the water on the Fourth of July than on any other day of the summer, Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief medical director of an insurance company offers three simple rules which should go far in preventing the large number of swimming accidents which occur every year during the summer months.

Dr. Fraser has been making a special study of hot weather accidents and disabilities. "If everyone," he says, "will remember the following three rules many lives will be spared and much sorrow avoided: First, never go swimming alone; second, keep out of the water for at least one full hour after a meal; third, never dive into water until you are sure of its depth."

"They are just 'common sense rules,'" Dr. Fraser said, "yet failure to observe them probably accounted for the great majority of the 5,500 swimming fatalities estimated by the National Safety Council for the year 1936, the latest figures that are available."

"Many people are drowned every year because they insist on going swimming alone and are powerless to help themselves when seized with a cramp or faced with some other sudden emergency."

"As for keeping out of the water directly after eating, a life guard at one of the large semi-public swimming pools here in the East tells me that he and the other guards know that their busy period will occur in the hour between two and three o'clock every day, when diners rush from the table into the water and are seized with cramps. More people get into difficulty during that hour than at any other time during the day."

"And finally, the dangers of diving into water without first knowing the depth are obvious to every one."

A large percentage of swimming fatalities are the result of the swimmer losing his head when faced with an emergency. It is imperative to keep a steady head. When suddenly caught in a swift current, Dr. Fraser points out that it is foolish and dangerous to fight the force of the water. Better, pick out a spot on shore, well down stream, and let the water bear you along while you slowly work yourself to land, letting the current carry you.

When unexpectedly caught in rough water, do not try to ride over the waves. Keep low in the water and when a wave is seen coming, hold the breath and go through it, thus conserving strength. Work your way slowly to shore, resting frequently. Lie flat, don't try to stand on the water, and keep the chin submerged.

CHAPTER 39

CHARLES had said on the phone that Jacqueline should come to his apartment at 97 Grayford street at 8 p. m. to tell of her misgivings. It was a little past 8 o'clock that evening when Jacqueline got off the bus and turned into Grayford street. She found that it was a long, rather narrow street, dimly lighted and almost deserted. There was no traffic save an occasional taxi taking a short cut—of benefiting the meter with a long detour—but here and there a car was drawn up beside the curb. Most of the houses were left off in apartments. Jacqueline noticed, and thought, as she strode along in search of No. 97, that it was just like the unimaginative Charles to choose a depressing spot like this in which to spend his leisure hours.

She walked quickly, surprised and annoyed with herself to discover that her nerves were hardly less jumpy than they had been as she walked along Park Lane that afternoon, and that she still felt an almost irresistible impulse to glance back over her shoulder at every few steps. Once or twice she was certain that she could detect the sound of footsteps following her. She halted and glanced quickly around, discovered that the sound of the footsteps had ceased, decided that she was hearing only the echo of her own heels, and went on again. Charles had said that he would be on the look-out for her. She wished he would turn up and meet her.

Most of the houses were numbered on the flange above the front door; most of the halls that were lighted at all were but dimly lighted, and locating any particular house meant counting on in odd numbers from the last legible number. Jacqueline made out No. 91, counted three houses forward and paused outside the one which she imagined must be No. 97. There was a big limousine waiting at the curb, and she caught a glimpse of a shadowy figure seated at the driving wheel, and the glow of a cigarette. She wondered vaguely if Charles had brought his important client home with him, and turned to peer up at the flange above the front door to assure herself that this was actually No. 97.

From behind her came the sound of a soft footstep, and she suddenly started and turned her head. At that instant a massive arm was shipped under her chin, jerking her backward, a massive hand was clapped over her nose and mouth, and a sweet, sickly smell assailed her nostrils. She tried to struggle, but the sweet, sickly smell seemed to be numbing her brain, spreading out into every cranny of her body, sapping all her strength. She got a vague impression of a deep, hoarse voice that seemed to travel to her over immense distances, and then she remembered nothing more. The first thing of which Jacqueline became aware was a dull ache in her head and a faint, rather sickly smell; the next, that she was lying on her back on something which was too hard to be a bed. For a time these facts were quite enough for her. She felt extremely tired. She had not the physical energy to open her eyes and discover where she was, or the mental energy to puzzle out what was the cause of that queer sensation in her head and the faint sickly smell. Gradually, however, as consciousness crept back, though she still lay with closed eyes, her mind began to stir, and she began vaguely to wonder where she was and how she had come there and what it was that had happened to her.

Colonel Lutman was mixed up in it somewhere, though what part he had taken in the matter she hadn't the faintest idea. Charles, too, was somehow involved in it. She had been going to see Charles—Yes, that was it. After that dreadful scene with Colonel Lutman about the will and the check, she had been going to see Charles to tell him everything and to ask him what she was to do about it. Slowly recollection returned to her. She remembered traveling by bus—or had she taken a taxi? She certainly had intended to take a taxi, because it was most important that she should get to Charles as quickly as possible. But no, she had gone by bus; she was sure of that now, because the conductor's punch had failed to work and he had made a hole in her ticket with the tip of his pencil. Besides, Charles had told her to take a bus when she had spoken to him on the telephone. The bus passed the end of his street, he had said, and she was to get off there and walk along the street and he would come to meet her. That was what she had done.

She remembered quite distinctly now getting off the bus and setting off along the street, looking for No. 97 as she went along. There had come that quick furtive step behind her. An arm had been flung round her neck, forcing her head backward, and a hand had clapped something over her mouth and stifled her screams. She remembered struggling desperately, twisting and wrenching to free herself. The arm had tightened around her neck, and she had been aware of a strong smell; it had seemed that with every breath she took, keen, pungent fumes had rushed up into her brain and sent her tongue twisting across her eyes. She remembered realizing that her struggles were growing weaker, that it was no use struggling any more, that whatever was happening to her must happen because she could fight against it no longer.

gold in Europe and still keep it in the closely guarded vaults of Fort Knox, Kentucky. The American who dealt this card to Van Zeeland was Norbert Bogden, young financier, associated with the international banking house of J. Henry Schroeder. Bogden was in a hotel in Zurich during a tour of Europe. He felt he ought to tell somebody of an idea about credits and finance, which that tour had produced. He sat down and wrote a letter to "Mr. John Doe." For days he carried the letter around with him, then on an impulse sent it to a banker friend in Paris.

The friend knew Van Zeeland, and sent the letter to him. The Belgian Premier was greatly impressed with Bogden's idea, and invited him to a personal conference. Later he embraced the plan and it became part of the agenda for his Washington visit.

Bogden Plan. Briefly, the plan calls for the United States to open a substantial deposit account with the Bank of International Settlements which in turn would lend out funds to European countries. There would be no actual transfer of gold. But the gold which the U. S. is storing in Fort Knox would be earmarked for the World Bank.

The trick in the scheme is that it would circumvent the Johnson Act, which bans loans to defaulting governments. By the plan, the World Bank could lend money to Germany, France, Italy, or any defaulting government—on gold credit established by the United States. And loans to these countries would mean U. S. financing of more armaments in the frenzied armaments race.

Bogden's plan is ingenious but it has no chance of acceptance by Roosevelt—as he made very clear to Van Zeeland in their conversations. It would be certain to precipitate a terrific furore in the country at large, and Congress almost certainly would take some action to stop it.

Diet and Health

By DR. LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Yesterday we said that in this campaign to educate the public in order to try to reduce the mortality of appendicitis, there were two elements—one was the possibility of recognizing acute appendicitis when it occurs in your own person; the other is what the patient should do after he has recognized that he has appendicitis.

In the campaign against appendicitis, the medical profession first had to educate itself. When surgeons had learned to do simple, instead of elaborate, operations, the mortality fell from 60 per cent to about 4 per cent. With the education of the public it is hoped it can fall to 1 or 2 per cent. It must never be forgotten that appendicitis is a treacherous disease, and we probably never will be able to attain 100 per cent of cures.

I said yesterday that everyone who has acute pain in the abdomen in the course of a life of health, should consider the possibility of appendicitis. The pain need not be in the region of the appendix but if accompanied by nausea or vomiting and fever, it must be regarded with suspicion. A great many people who have these pains put them down to cramps or indigestion or some minor thing, and proceed to treat themselves, call- ing in a druggist for consultation. This is what not to do.

The worst thing to do is to take a cathartic in the presence of an acute abdominal pain. If I could get drug clerks to prescribe paregoric instead of salts for every- one who would improve the health of the world no end. If I could get them body who has the bellyache. I to send such patients to a doctor. I would improve it even more.

Early Stage May Be Mild. The thing that people forget is that appendicitis in its early stage may be fairly mild, and the patient is able to walk around and get himself some medicine, which he doesn't need. If the bellyache is simply cramps or indigestion, it will take care of itself. You can certainly afford to wait 24 or 48 hours or call a doctor. If it isn't simply acute indigestion, the use of cathartics will turn a simple condition into a dangerous one because, as I pointed out yesterday, it is not made perfect in love.—I John there is all the difference in the 4:18.

KATHARINE BRUSH RELATES THE FACTS:

BANG! A TIRE BLEW OUT—ONE LITTLE "DEB" IS WISER AND SAFER

The Girl Behind The Wheel Might Have Been Your Daughter... Read Her Exciting Adventure

EVERY day you see girls like Helen Jean Talbot whizzing along in expensive cars. Helen Jean is a pert little debutante of fashionable Grosse Pointe, Michigan, who dances all the latest steps, wears the latest clothes, and drives her car just as well as any man.

On this particular summer day, Jean was clipping off the miles on the road from Lansing to Flint. Judging her distance carefully, Jean swung the car out in the fast lane of traffic to pass the car in front. And then things began to happen. Above the contented purr of her powerful motor burst the ear-splitting "BANG" of a blow-out. The big sedan zig-zagged. The driver of the car which she had passed was able to stop short. But all that separated Jean's car from a yawning ditch were a few scant inches of crumbling earth.

Of course, Jean loves a thrill—but as she said later, this was one too many for her. That's why, today, Jean's car is equipped with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with Golden Ply blow-out protection.

Goodrich Aids Motorists

I'm a writer, not a mechanic, but I'm interested enough in my own safety to find out something about blow-out protection. And here's what I discovered:

Goodrich engineers saw the need for a safer tire as driving speeds increased. As a result, they invented the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. Of course, no other tire in the world but the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has this life-saving invention. In view of the fact that I have always felt that it's much better to be safe than sorry, I would suggest partially administer the office and enforce the laws."

KATHARINE BRUSH—Celebrated Author of "Young Man of Manhattan" and Other Best Sellers

The governor took occasion in his statement to administer reproof to labor, thus:

"Some years ago capital was in the saddle. Today labor has a new found freedom and power. It is now guilty of some of the excesses and abuses that it formerly complained of."

"This new feel of power has made some of the new leaders forget their responsibilities and either do or condone certain lawless actions that the American people do not like."

"Deplores 'Force and Violence'"

"Granting that there may have been sins on the part of some employers, this does not excuse the use of force and violence against other workers who do not wish to join and whose only desire is to work and earn a living."

"Perhaps you do not realize it, because you are in contact with only one group, but there is a rising tide of public opinion that is entirely out of sympathy with present conditions. Many people are becoming alarmed by the grave uncertainty of today, and I happen to be one of them. Their numbers are growing rapidly."

"At any rate, my oath of office gives me one clear duty: To protect our citizens and uphold the law, come what may."

The governor also elucidated remarks of last Saturday in connection with Secretary of Labor Perkins.

He quoted her as saying to him over the telephone last Saturday evening:

"We must not let the efforts of the (federal mediation board fail. We cannot let our labor friends think that we have let them down. I think you ought to keep those mills closed until a settlement is reached. I think you ought to have Tom Girdler (head of Republic Steel) and Frank Jurnell (head of Youngstown Sheet and Tube) subpoenaed to Columbus and keep them there until they reach an agreement."

"Inasmuch as Secretary Perkins questions the accuracy of the quotation, it is only fair to say that she sent Assistant Secretary (Edward F.) McGarry to see me the next day to urge the same general proposal."

Clinton Golden, Pittsburgh regional director of SWOC, the CIO affiliate which called the present strike, told E. T. Weir, chairman of the Wierton Steel company at Wierton, Va., that the union would take such action as circumstances necessitate "to end 'attacks' on union employees" in the Wierton mills.

"Members of your notorious hatchet gang and so-called Security League," Gold told Weir, "have threatened, physically assaulted and driven from their employment in your mills x x x all of our union lodge officers."

A mass meeting which leaders of the strike had hoped might bring out 30,000 strikers and sympathizers attracted about 2,500 Sunday at Johnstown.

In Youngstown, the county grand jury convened today, and Prosecutor Ambrose said it would investigate the June 19 riot which cost two lives. The total casualties for the entire strike, which began with a walkout at Canton mills May 26, remains unchanged at 12 dead, and about 220 injured.

SEEK UPHOLDING OF LAY ADJUSTERS

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 28.—Testimony in the suit brought against Boyle G. Clark, chairman of the Missouri bar committees and members of its advisory committee by six mutual insurance companies began before three judges in the Boone County circuit court here this morning after opening statements by Clark and William L. Hogsett, chief counsel for the plaintiff.

The companies are asking the court to uphold their methods of settling losses by use of lay adjusters. The bar committee contends that the methods constitute the unauthorized practice of law by laymen, and suits are already on file against several of the companies, charging them with contempt of court.

Sitting with Judge W. M. Dinwiddie of the Boone County circuit court are Judges William McCafee of St. Louis and Eldridge Dearing of Potosi.

Triple Slayer To New York Held Without Bail

paper offices. He waived extradition and was brought here by plane last night.

"Several Years in Nut House"

The young sculptor said he would be saved from the electric chair because he had spent several years in what he called "the nut house."

Irwin was watched in a 24-hour guard by three policemen to prevent any danger of his taking his own life.

The confession made to the Chicago newspaper apparently was accepted by the New York police, for Valentine and Dodge said:

"He (Irwin) further stated that the statement which he made to the newspaper in Chicago was revised and corrected by him, and signed by him, and that that statement was a correct statement."

Despite a wide distribution of circulars for his apprehension, Irwin had worked unnoticed in a Cleveland hotel from April 8, a few days after the murders on March 27, until last Tuesday. A kitchen maid asked him about his identity, and he fled.

He arrived in Chicago at 7:30 a. m. Saturday, roamed the streets, attended a movie, and then, late in the day, leisurely walked into the newspaper office.

With the arrest, Irwin, turning from nonchalance to gloominess, from blitheness to surliness, was hurried through routine moves in Chicago and brought here by New York detectives.

They questioned him on the amazingly frank story Irwin gave the Chicago newspaper, of how the murders were committed singly through a period of many hours, of how "Ronnie," the 20-year-old model, might have lived if she had not recognized her assailant, and of how the mother, Mary, 54, struggled furiously against death.

Irwin, a minister's son and one-time student of Divinity, as related in the newspaper statement, went to the Gedeon apartment to murder Mrs. Kudner.

"I wanted to kill Ethel because she was the dearest object in the world to me. I loved her and I hated her. I dreamed of modelling her as if beheaded, with her head far back and the mouth open."

Recognized by 'Kitchen Girl'

CLEVELAND, O., June 28.—The Scullery girl came out of the Kitchen today and followed a bewildering rainbow to his New York port of gold.

Murder painted the rainbow that arched Henrietta Koscianski's journey. The blood of Ronnie Gedeon, of her mother and of the luckless Frank Bryne dotted it.

But it was the 19-year-old Scullery girl's sharp eyes that saw it there. "Thousands of others had looked but had not seen. To them the bar boy who called himself Robert Murray was just that."

Others could not see that the bar boy, lugging in the clean glasses and totting away the "empties," was Robert Irwin, wanted for shocking murder; Robert Irwin the "madman."

Henrietta Koscianski saw; and tonight she will be in New York, richer because of it.

There was a reservation for her today on a New York bound plane. There was another one for West F. Peterson, editor of the detective magazine Inside Detective, which had offered $10,000 reward to the person who supplied the information that would turn Robert Irwin over to the law to answer for the triple murders of last Easter Sunday.

"She Gets The Dough"

"Sure, Irwin surrendered of his own accord," Peterson said. "But we feel that if Miss Koscianski hadn't recognized his picture in the magazine and reported it, through the hotel manager, to Cleveland police, Irwin would never have been forced into flight and into surrender. She gets the dough."

Ironically, the $10,000 check which the magazine has for Henrietta Koscianski will be—except in amount—exactly like those Veronica Gedeon used to get when she posed for photographs used to illustrate the magazine's articles.

Miss Koscianski's plane was only 16 hours after another plane had taken Robert Irwin there.

Perhaps she would see him again, this fellow she knew as Bob the bar boy. First she would get the check. Then she would talk over two offers for her life story. After that—"He was cute," she said. "He used to talk a mile a minute. He kept jumping from one subject to another."

"But I never let him 'date' me. Sometimes when he looked at me, shivers went up my back. And that time, when I posed for him to sketch, and he took my neck in his strong fingers to get my head in the just right position—

"I can't help shuddering now when I know it must have been like that—with those same, wiry fingers—that he held the poor Gedeon girl's throat."

Sometimes when they are having a ritzy banquet at the hotel where she works here, she peeps in. But tonight, perhaps, she will sit at a table down front; and the viands will be for her; and maybe kitchen girls there will peep to see Henrietta Koscianski—the girl whose good eyes solved, the police are sure, the triple murder of Beekman Hill.

Two To Trial On Charge Of Taking Project Records

released from the WPA job because the powder work was completed and he had been on that work.

Floyd's wages were $28.50 every two weeks and John's $17.50 for a similar time.

Three state's witnesses followed. Dowdy on the witness stand before lunch, George Spickert, Carl Ragar, Joe Montgomery and W. J. Paul and Dowdy. Paul said that John Dalton had called him (Paul) to his car and asked him to look in his car to see that there was nothing there but the records.

Price Ruffin, state witness, was the first witness called this afternoon. He said he heard part of a conversation between John Dalton and Dowdy. Dalton, he said, told Dowdy, who called officers, to tell them if they were looking for him he would be in Sedalia in fifteen minutes. He said they had made contributions for the shack and rock, entirely unsolicited. Some gave, he said, and some didn't.

Mr. Dowdy, recalled to the stand, identified the third piece of cardboard introduced in evidence in the morning. He said it contained records of money contributed to pay for gravel, although he said, it was handled through Garland Ragar, and not through himself. He denied there were three other pieces of cardboard with records at the shack, then modified that statement by saying there may have been partial records of those introduced in court.

Wrote Federal Judge

John Dalton was the first witness. He went to work on the WPA about the first of November, 1936, he said, and a couple of days later Dowdy came to him and told him the boys were contributing towards the erection of a shack in which to eat their lunch. He replied he asked to pay for a building on a government project, but that was to be done he'd pay his later, and he paid 75 cents, he said. Later, he said, Dowdy asked for a contribution for rock to be used on the project. Again, he testified, he protested, but paid a dollar when he'd been given to understand he'd pay for not have a job. A third time, he said, he was asked for a contribution, this time for rock, but he objected and a few days later received a notice of his discharge through the mail. He said he wrote to Judge Albert L. Reeves, federal judge, in Kansas City, and received an answer. This letter, introduced into court, said the writer, Judge Reeves, was transmittal of Dalton's letter to the district attorney and he had no doubt there would be an inquiry into the practices he mentioned.

Dalton testified that he told Dowdy it was because of this letter he wanted those records, for if an inquiry should be made he wanted some evidence to back it up.

Dalton testified that after they had the records Dowdy asked for their return, and said he would give a receipt for the contributions they had paid. Dalton refused to give them back then, he said, but told Dowdy he could have them after they were through with them. Dalton told of a visit to the office of Frank Monroe to ask why he was discharged but his conversation was not permitted as evidence by the court.

COURT PROPOSALS IN COMMITTEE JAM

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The senate judiciary committee agreed today to consider on July 12 all pending proposals for constitutional amendments affecting the judiciary.

A score, or more, proposals affecting the courts have been jammed up in committee for many months behind the Roosevelt court bill providing for enlargement of the supreme court unless older justices now on the bench retire.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), one of the leading foes of the Roosevelt measure, announced that if there continued to be a distinct difference of opinion in the committee he would recommend the creation of a special judicial system and report back at the next session of congress.

The senate had its first chance to pass on the Roosevelt court bill at today's session.

Burke objected. That leaves the bill on the calendar until called up by vote of the senate—probably next week.

HEAD OF LINCOLN UNIVERSITY RESIGNS

JEFFERSON CITY, June 28.—President Charles W. Florence of Lincoln university, the state's institution of higher education for Negroes, announced today his services as president of the university, located here, "will terminate July 1."

In a statement, he said the action grew out of a disagreement between himself and the university's board of curators over methods of selection, retention, and promotion of faculty members, the nature and objectives of the university, and the nature and composition of the board of curators itself.

He has been head of the school here for the past six years.

Dean W. B. Jason will become acting president of the university, President Florence announced.

RUST DAMAGE TO CUT WHEAT YIELD

JEFFERSON CITY, June 28.—Weather's rust damage to Missouri's wheat crop, now being harvested, will cost farmers millions of dollars, a survey by the Associated Press showed today.

Estimates of the crop damage varied from 10 per cent in Cape Girardeau county on the Mississippi river to 60 per cent in Jackson county on the Kansas line.

The farm agents of Jackson county and Nodaway county, in northwest Missouri, each estimated the loss around $500,000.

Wheat cutting was nearly completed in southern Missouri, was in full swing in central sections and was just starting in the northern portions.

COUPLE ARTFULLY DODGE FRIENDS

WILMINGTON, Del., June 28.—For the last few days before their wedding Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel du Pont have turned into a pair of blithe phantoms in whom everyone here is interested but whom few have seen.

They slip quietly in and out of Owl's Nest, the bride's home, to du Pont family parties in their honor. They slip away from the house for drives through the Delaware hills in Young Roosevelt's roadster. But no one sees them.

They carefully avoid the public places. On Saturday when half the du Pont clan was at the opening of Delaware park, a race track in which the family is financially interested, the bride and groom headed their roadster in the opposite direction to a wedding of a friend outside Philadelphia.

They have already exchanged their wedding gifts to each other, but they admit only "We gave each other jewelry. Maybe we'll announce later what it is."

That's part of Miss Ethel's desire to observe the old tradition that a bride and her bridal finery should be a secret until she comes down the church aisle to be married.

She testified briefly that she accompanied Crane against her will but said he did not mistreat her.

L. B. Shuch, 76 year old county prosecuting attorney, said the date for Counts' preliminary trial will probably be set tomorrow. He will be denied bond pending the hearing.

FARMERSVILLE, Ill., June 28.—Wade Van Horn of Comanche, Okla., and Miss Reta Hawk of Rupert, Idaho, were killed and two other persons riding in Miss Hawk's car were injured yesterday when the machine struck a concrete abutment north of here and overturned in a ditch.

Ford Bradley, University City, Mo., a teacher in the Poplar Bluff, Mo., junior high school, driver of the car, was taken to a Springfield, Ill., hospital where his condition was reported serious. The fourth occupant of the car Miss Phoebe Siese of Salt Lick, Ky., was taken to a private home for treatment of minor injuries.

The four were en route to Springfield from St. Louis when the accident occurred. Witnesses reported the machine swerved from the road near the bridge while traveling at a high rate of speed and crashed into the abutment before the driver could bring it under control.

Miss Hawk, Miss Siese and Van Horn were said to be students in St. Louis. Relatives said Bradley had just arrived in St. Louis for the summer vacation.

SURE IT IS

... and mighty strenuous too!

"SPORT, even for the fun of it, can be tiring," says Miss Gloria Wheeden, who here shows her skill at aquaplaning. "Yes, I smoke," she says. "When I feel a bit let-down, I light up a Camel and get a 'lift' in energy." A suggestion: When an active day drains physical and nervous energy, you can get a delightful "lift" from a Camel. They never get on your nerves.

20 MILES AN HOUR on a skittery board is thrill enough! But Gloria Wheeden is a daring miss who hikes it up to 40 (upper left picture). Executes a hand-stand (above). Sews around a fast turn with two aboard (right). There's no doubt about her nerves being healthy. "Camels are head and shoulders on top for mildness," she says. "Much as I smoke, they don't bother my nerves a bit."

ATHLETICS BEAT VERSAILLES 6-0 TO EVEN SERIES

Morgan Countians' String Ended at 24 as Horner Hurls Four-Hitter

The Sedalia Athletics snapped the winning streak of the Versailles Midgets at 24 games Sunday afternoon with a 6 to 0 triumph over the Morgan Countians before the largest crowd of the season at Liberty Park.

Gene Horner, Athletics star fireballer, was complete master of the situation, holding the visitors to four hits and not allowing a Versailles hitter to reach second base. He was opposed by Skinny White who defeated the Athletics in a 15-inning struggle several Sundays ago and he pitched excellent ball until the eighth inning when the Athletics crashed through with five runs to clinch the game.

The Athletics scored their first run of the game in the initial inning when Ball fumbled Light's grounder and then threw wide at first. Light stole second, after Brownfield fouled out but Sauter sent a single into right to score Light.

From then on until the eighth inning the batters on both sides might as well have left their bats at home so effective were the pitchers.

However when the eighth came around with the locals clinging to a one run lead things began to happen. Small beat out a hit to short stop as a starter, Barnes bunted and when White threw to second both runners were safe. Livengood beat out a bunt that no one fielded and the bases were filled. Lobaugh was hit by a pitched ball, Small scoring. Horner sent a fly to center scoring Barnes. Light singled scoring Livengood and Lobaugh and went to second on the throw to the plate. Summers who has been out of the lineup since the Columbia game due to a broken finger singled to left scoring Light with the final run of the game.

Light with 10 chances at short stop and Lobaugh with 11 chances at second were the fielding stars of the game.

Next Sunday the Athletics will meet the Jefferson City Twedes team and on Monday will meet the Dixiel Oilers in a game as a part of the entertainment on Missouri Pacific Booster day at Liberty park.

THE SPORTS ROUNDUP

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, June 28.—Pennant tip: Joe McCarthy teams have never won two flags in a row....Gossip around Lindy's says Madison-Square Garden will toss a couple of shells into the heavyweight situation this week....Rogers Hornsby's latest contribution is that 400 hitters are born, not made....That Broadway restaurant which specializes in sandwiches named after sports celebs, now features the "Ralph Guldahl"....They're still talking about the party Jimmy Kelly, owner of a Greenwich village hot spot, tossed for the fight mob in Chicago last week....Charlie Ward of the Detroit Free-Press, is the guy who labeled Joe Louis "The Brown Bomber."

The story that Larry Kelly, the Yale star, will not turn pro was bad news to every national football league team....Suppose you noticed none of the National league third sacker was rated good enough for the all-star team....Joe Louis plans no theatre engagements for the present....He'll limit his extra-curricular activities to endorsements, exhibitions and a little radio work....Less of the latter the better for Joe, who is plumb scared to death of a mike....What kind of gas does the House Gang use, for goodness sake....Its won 16 of its last 21 games.

Who do you like in the British open?....London books make Henry Cotton a 3-1 choice....In New York he is quoted at 12 to 1....We'll string with Henry Picard, who is about due....Bob Harlow, the golf expert, says the winner is sure to come from among Cotton, Snead, Guldahl, Picard and Nelson....Joe Louis is guaranteed $75,000 for his London fight in August....Glenn Cunningham, the great miler, figures he has travelled more than 450,000 miles to run in track meets....Glenn, who shattered the mile and a half mark, here, Saturday, looks on his jaunt to the National A. A. U. championships at Milwaukee this week as just a suburban hop.

Easy to see who is the No. 1 guy in your agents house....One of the young ladies who lives there, being a bit shy on picture frames, ditched a picture of her Daddy in favor of James J. Braddock....Well it's a pleasure to be licked by a guy like Jim....Correction: Harry Lenny, New York fight manager and the first white man ever to work in Joe Louis' corner, was handed $5,000 for helping advise Louis against Braddock....Lenny agreed to work for $2,000 but Louis' managers were so pleased with the way he showed Joe how to dodge Braddock's right, they more than doubled the ante....New York papers are calling on business men, boxing commissioners, et al to stop snoring and grab the next heavyweight title fight....Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit are calling—and Mike Jacobs is listening.

HUBBELL BEATS DEAN 8-1 BEFORE CROWD OF 38,719

Result Tightens Pennant Race as Cubs Drop a Pair to Dodgers

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS, June 28.—You couldn't blame major league magnates if they peeked under second base or back of the scoreboard or some such place today in the hope of digging up a rivalry to match the Carl Hubbell-Dizzy Dean duel.

For, win, lose or draw between the Giants' southpaw ace and the Cardinals' great popper-offer, any time those two go to the post against each, they pack 'em in to the rafters.

To the moguls, it didn't matter so much that Hubbell topped Diz like a tent yesterday to take an 8-1 decision in the latest renewal of their pitching rivalry. What was more interesting to the front office, was the fact that 38,719 fans made it look like world series day in Sportsman's Park for the battle.

Three Duels Draw 120,000
That crowd, added to the full houses that saw their two previous tussles, made it more than 120,000 who have turned out for the three Dean-Hubbell clashes this year.

Yesterday's win, in which Hubbell allowed but six hits, fanned six and did not walk a man, compared to the 10 hits Dean gave up, was his second straight. Achieved with the aid of two homers by Mel Ott, the win sent the Giants and Cards into a virtual tie for second place in the National league.

As the eastern teams headed home today, those two clubs were only half a game back of the league-leading Cubs, who were soundly whipped by Brooklyn pitching in both ends of a double-header. Van Mungo fanned six to take the opener 8-3, and Rookie Luke Hamlin hurled a three-hitter for a 6-3 nightcap decision.

Yanks End Successful Stand
The Yankees, winding up a highly successful home stand with nine victories against three defeats, trampled the Tigers 9-5 as George Selkirk clouted his 16th homer. The defeat dropped the Tigers into the American league third place, since the White Sox won their sixth straight by topping the Senators 5-3, to return to second.

The Athletics climbed out of the cellar by splitting with Cleveland's Indians, George Caster's four-hit pitching taking the opener 10-0 and the Tribe coming through 7-2 in the second game. Beaten twice by Boston's hot Red Sox, 8-0 and 11-7, the St. Louis Browns nose-dived back into last place.

The Bees turned the tables on the Cincinnati Reds with a twin win, 8-2 and 10-5, and the Pirates nosed out the Phillies 4-3.

NO MAT PROGRAM HERE THIS WEEK

Promoter Oliver Gideon of Spring field informed the Elks' wrestling committee today he would be unable to arrange a show in Sedalia this week. Difficulty in securing a sufficient number of matches for a show was given as his reason.

BOOSTERS NOSE OUT MARSHALL SOFTBALL TEAM BY 4-3 SCORE

The Missouri Pacific Boosters softball team indicated their readiness for their big game with the Rosenthal Clothiers Tuesday night by defeating the Red Cross Pharmacy team, 1936 city champions of Marshall, 4 to 3, Sunday night at Liberty Park.

Hays, Booster pitcher, struck out 13 members of the Marshall club which owns two victories over the Rosenthals this season, and yielded only four hits which he managed to scatter through three innings.

The Sedalians bunched their hits, including a homer by Studer, with bases on balls to score twice in each of the second and third innings.

The Boosters and Rosenthals, hot rivals for the city title now held by the Clothiers, meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Liberty Park in a game which will have an important bearing on the outcome of the National Division race in the City Softball league. The Rosenthals are undefeated while the Boosters have lost one decision in an upset by Montgomery Wards.

Sunday's score:
Red Cross 002 100—3 4 1
Boosters 022 000 x—4 3 2

WHEAT SKYROCKETS IN BUYING STAMPEDE
CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—In a late buying stampede today, wheat prices ran up to the extreme immediate permissible limit, 5 cents a bushel, at most North American markets.
Spring wheat markets led the skyrocketing of values, influenced by spread of black rust northward, and by sensational curtailment of Canadian crop estimates because of drought damage. Some estimates put the probable size of the Canadian crop were as low as 150,000,000 bushels, about 50 per cent of expectations a month ago.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 cents above Saturday's finish, July $1.13 1/2, to $1.13 3/4, Sept. $1.13 1/2, to $1.13 3/4, Corn 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents up, July $1.27 to $1.27 1/2, Sept. $1.12 1/2 to $1.12 3/4, and oats 1/2 to 2 cents advanced.

HELD FOR SLAYING OF GIRL YEARS AGO

By The Associated Press.
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 28.—A 61-year-old man who displayed no "remorse" was held here today for the slaying 25 years ago of a 10-year-old Grand Island, Neb., girl. District Attorney Clyde L. Starratt said, and for attacks on two small Colorado Springs girls.

Starratt announced he was preparing charges against Charles Wesley Cox based on the recent assault of the two girls, aged 7 and 9 years.

The district attorney said that in addition to the attacks, Cox confessed the slaying of Goldie Williams, February 6, 1912, after luring her into a vacant house in Grand Island and assaulting her. Cox, Starratt related, declared he strangled the girl and then struck her on the head with a hammer.

Police Inspector I. B. Bruce quoted Cox as saying he took the girl's body, threw it into a mortar box and covered the body with mortar. He then collected wages due him from his employer, Bruce said Cox related, and left Grand Island immediately. The body was discovered two days later, Bruce added.

FEAR SPREAD IN DRUG STORE STRIKE

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—A strike which closed seven Katz drug stores in Greater Kansas City threatened today to spread to 59 other drug stores owned by four chains.

C. W. Duncan, organizer for the Retail Clerks' Protective Association, said officials of the Crown, Parkview, John S. Watkins, and C. Morris Watkins chains would be given until tomorrow noon to sign closed shop agreements.

"The contracts call for a 15-day period in which to reach an agreement on specific wage and hour demands," Duncan said. "The executive board of the union already has voted to strike unless the contracts are signed."

Thomas L. Evans, president of the Crown Co., which operates 43 stores in Greater Kansas City, said the A. F. of L. union would have to prove majority of the company's employees were members before he would bargain with it.

Duncan estimated between 600 and 700 more drug store employees would be called out if the union proposals were denied.
